- Carry malpractice insurance and provide a Certificate of Insurance (COI) for SWC

2

Complete the Application and Rental Agreement

- Obtain the application form from SWC or their representative

3

Attend Orientation and Device Training

- Upon application review, participation in an orientation program is required
- Attend training sessions on the center's technologies
- Complete training successfully and receive check-off approval for device handling competence

- Patients are considered the responsibility of the Provider (member) rather than SWC (presumably a healthcare organization or clinic).
- Appointments are scheduled in Nextech, specifically under the outside provider column, indicating that the scheduling system separates these providers from SWC.
- Treatment performed on patients are documented in Nextech and sent to the respective provider, similar to how surgical notes are dictated at a surgery center.
- Payment for services rendered is collected at the desk using the Provider's direct merchant processing account. This account is set up during onboarding if necessary, ensuring there is no co-mingling of funds.
- The Provider receives an end-of-day report detailing the day's activities, likely including information about appointments, treatments, and financial transactions.
